I don't get why the pointsfix is included by default, but this shouldn't be, or why this even had a poll (which is a flawed method, because I think the posts and reasons speak louder than a few ticks for "no" saying nothing to explain why, and we all know why they said nothing), yet the pointsfix didn't have a poll. There's no consistency. This is just as big a bug, if not bigger, than the pointsfix. The two together are probably the biggest as far as gameplay goes. I get the idea that if the outside PT fix is released a few optional maps not by default, that hardly anyone will use them, thus this bug won't really be fixed in Renegade. The "real, official" version being fixed to how it should be is how it, well, should be. Let the ones who want the bug add it, just like is being done with the pointsfix. Don't forget, this fix will only work on the default Westwood maps anyway (since the maps have to be edited), and there will be an auto-downloader, so custom maps should become more popular, so this still won't be completely fixed anyway.
