For the record, I voted yes, and I think the decision to ban troopr02 is one of the best decisions taken by this forums administrative and moderating team in a long time. His attitude and incessant trolling and flaming were detrimental to the forums and the morale of anyone intending to post here. Personally, I would have banned him long ago for his actions, and it's a testament to the leniency and patience of the administrators and moderators here that he lasted as long as he did. Good riddance to bad rubbish.
