A lot of people died then, and it was pretty sad.

But I did a bit of research, and came up with this:
There are about 2,975 US fatalities in 9/11, excluding the 19 hijackers.
There are over 151,000 civilian casualties in the War on Terrorism in Iraq alone.

If you do the math, pretty much for every US civilian who died that day, about 50 Iraqi civilians die in return.

Correct me if I'm wrong.
