I smoked a cigar for about 15 min this summer. (I'm 16 and was with my dad) I got sick about 10 min after I gave it to my 14 year old bro to try out. Neither one of us is ever going to smoke again. He got sick after 2 min of smoking it. Why the cigars were in the suburban in the first place, is that my dad and his brother brought a 1988 Blazer that he gave to us. And every time they go on a road trip, they have to have a customary cigar. They didn't finish the cigars and had some left over after the trip. (Even though it has almost as many miles as our suburban, the Blazer is in much better shape aside from having a rougher ride to to the fact that it is a 4x4.)
