What operating system do you have?

At the moment, the only Operating system (I know of) that supports full-motion desktop backgrounds is Vista. (Vista Ultimate, actually).

Using a Vista only program called Dreamscene.

You can mimic this effect for Windows XP, but it requires the media player VLC and its "Set video as wallpaper" function.

Alternatively, you can take a bunch of screen shots of the Nuclear symbol in motion and compile them into a gif image... then set that as your background.
