

---

Subject: Re: The Pictures.

Posted by thrash300 on Thu, 23 Oct 2008 23:50:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

genetix wrote on Thu, 23 October 2008 12:57 Why do you want his computer to "download" the image? If you want the picture to just show up in the email then use HTML. If you are trying to send him the image send it in an attachment. Or even tell him to go to that address and right click on it...

The only reason I could see someone wanting to "force" a download when someone views an email is for fraudulent reasons.

Can you tell me more about the H.T.M.L. part, this is not for fraud purposes, this is merely done to save me and my friend time that rather than opening up new tabs and I find it to be much more convenient it eliminates extra steps that are not fun to do.

---