Sure, they might not have been publically flogged over it, but regardless they shouldn't have done it, and deserve everything they get.

Never like that Russell Brand anyway, he always comes across as some kind of mentally challenged ape to me.

It's not irrelevant that they aired it, as it has shown that whoever allowed it to be aired is a complete idiot, as what they should have done is either:

Edit out the phone calls made, or simply not broadcast it altogether, although i'm sure it isn't as simple as that.

I agree though, that they shouldn't have done it...right bunch of twats should be banned from broadcasting...
