Actually I thought Clinton made a fine president so I'm not blaming him for anything. I do blame the current administration, though, for several problems concerning the deficit, your debt, your image on the world stage, the mess in Iraq, etc.

I don't want to get into a political debate because I'm just stating my opinion.

The previous poster was absolutely right in saying that Obama and Bush aren't very different. That's American politics for you - two sides on the same coin - only slight differences between both parties and yet so much tension.

I miss Ron Paul.
