
Subject: Re: joe the plumer

Posted by Jerad2142 on Thu, 06 Nov 2008 15:32:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Darkknight wrote on Thu, 06 November 2008 05:14Jerad Gray wrote on Wed, 05 November 2008 23:24Darkknight wrote on Wed, 05 November 2008 18:07Jerad Gray wrote on Wed, 05 November 2008 11:36Darkknight wrote on Mon, 03 November 2008 22:29Ryu wrote on Mon, 03 November 2008 23:08not about taking from the rich and giving to the poor, this isn't Robin Hood, this is about working class being taxed too much which is unfair while the rich pretty much keep all their money.

Obama wants to, I figure, reduce tax on working class citizens and slightly raise tax on the rich so both can have enough money to support themselves and buy the luxuries in life, so it's a win-win situation.

its not win-win. the wealthy in this country are already paying most of the taxes now you want them to pay even more.

Where do you think your jobs come from? Theres your win-win. The guy who risks all that he has, works 14 hour days, 7 days a week takes a risk on losing it all shouldn't be taxed to death once they make it.

Doesnt matter anyway, they'll just all move off shore, hire less people, keep their money anyway. which they have every right to, ITS THEIRS.

Democrats = Free hand out party

I hope when the trick or treaters came up to your house you looked in all their bags and took from the kid who had the most and redistributed it among all the other kids. One might have gotten out earlier but that doesn't matter , its not fair they have more.

I work 40 hours a week and make $270, my friend washes dishes for 20 hours a week and makes $310. Think about it...

Think about what? You got a job cause someone paved the way before you for the company you work at?

Ok i thought about it.

LOL, only if paving makes it rougher, usually making half as much for twice the time isn't a good thing. Also, usually thinking means you put more then 50 seconds of thought into what you might later claim to have read.

did you not know how much you were going to make before you took the job? one day you got your pay check and were just blindsided. You choose to work there for that amount of money. if you dont like it get another job.

Or better yet go invest all you got and work long hours 7 days a week and try and create jobs for others. but remember when you do make it, its not your money anymore.

Perhaps out of the 50 applications I sent out they were the only ones that replied, and maybe I needed the money bad enough that I actually had no choice but to take the job, and as most jobs around here do, they don't want to pay over time so I cannot pass 40 hours.
