I've used Vista Business x86 and x64, and I am now on Server 2008 x64. Used all of these "extensively", and I have had 'zero' problems with the 6.~ operating system series. When I here people trash Vista, it really is because they have a few problems with their computer. The major causes being unsupported hardware or lack of hardware. The funny part being: developers, or the like, are some of the most destructive users to their environments, yet have the least problems.
