I might be looking in the wrong places, forgive me if I am, but what's the status on the TT patch? I don't think we've heard anything official on the progress other than people posting questions and suggestions, and sometimes getting answers from the team. The announcement post had some information on what was getting done, but that's pretty much it.

What's done so far, what's getting done, or simply is everything working as planned in terms of coding and the time factor?
