Spoonycheesesoda You hate state religions, so why is it a good reason to focus on keeping Christians in office that are undoubtably going to keep religion in government?

I'm absolutely mystified as to how you came to this conclusion.

Well, most politicians profess to be Christian. At least, here in America. Even though most people don't act like they're part of Christianity, they won't vote for anyone who isn't Christian. Put an atheist up against a Christian with virtually the same voting record and about the same amount of experience, and the Christian will win, especially if the atheist is out-spoken about his/her beliefs.

Spoonycheesesoda Besides, if you start looking at the candidates instead of their issues, you become uninformed.

I'm equally puzzled as to your use of the words "instead of", when "as well as" is far more appropriate.

You clearly don't understand American voters, then. "Instead of" is appropriately used. Trust me.
