

---

Subject: Re: Why did you vote for Obama?

Posted by GoArmy44 on Thu, 04 Dec 2008 05:00:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Frontier Psychiatrist wrote on Wed, 03 December 2008 06:27GoArmy44 wrote on Tue, 02 December 2008 22:43Spoony wrote on Sun, 30 November 2008 09:18cheesesoda wrote on Sat, 29 November 2008 14:11No, they're not real Americans. They're American citizens, but they've abandoned most of everything America was founded on.

If America was "founded on" democracy, then it sounds like you're the one who's done that. Y'know, the principle that you're allowed to choose for yourself which criteria to think about when casting your vote?

Tell me, if you watched an interview and a candidate was asked which book they found most inspirational and uplifting, and they said Mein Kampf, would it be unfair to take that into account? No? Then why not if the book was the Qu'ran, which - let's be honest - makes Mein Kampf look downright moderate?

We weren't established as a democracy but a republic. As Chief Justice John Marshall said in Marbury v. Madison "the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men."

And who made the laws?

Men, they are man's law, but the law rules, and not the man. No man is above the law.

---