i don't remember ever using your name in any of my posts but for some reason you've assumed i meant you. the post i made where you responded to it was a general statement. you seem to have a personal agenda toward me for some reason.

Whatever I don't really care. It's not like you care about what anyone else here says either.

you either believe or you don't and you wont convince the other side to change just from reading the forums.
