Very simple question. Just like what will I do if their isn't one? turn to dirt.

So I'm asking what will you do if their is one?

I can't answer for Spoon, but it seems like he and I are in the same boat. If there is a god and he's anything like your bible describes him, than we won't be cast into a flaming pit because we didn't take the short road on the quest for truth.

As for what we're going to do, the answer is nothing. Who can accurately plan for something they don't know is going to happen? If we happen to continue after death, then whatever happens, happens.
