I doubt it's about costs at all. If it was such a good alternative to XWIS, we'd have heard about it, because nobody makes a project like that, and decides not to share it because we are all 'dumbasses' .

If costs were truly a concern, I'm sure there'd be a few people with money around this place who would front the coin for running the thing.

Frankly, I don't think it has been completed at all.
