Just visited the Modern Warfare site to see whats been happening lately. It looks like it is coming along well at the moment. Just one thing about the site though, have you guys heard of JPEG compression? The screenshots that nearly 99% of visitors will look at are nearly 1MB in size as a BMP file and thats going to take a good few minutes to view on a 56k modem. Get the webmaster to compress them to 100kb JPEG or smaller and then a lot more visitors will be happy, it also saves you a lot on bandwidth and webspace.
