

---

Subject: Re: Fragbox Build

Posted by EvilWhiteDragon on Mon, 29 Dec 2008 12:43:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

While my Asus P5B deluxe is now doing quite alright, I had to RMA it first. That is basically the experience with all my asus boards I've had. You got to RMA them at LEAST ONCE in the warranty period.

Personally I prefer DFI. Might be a bit more expensive, but they'll survive almost anything. Either that or Abit, but I think they have gone bankrupt.

And, now I come to think of it, the best recent motherboard abit made was the NF7-s, which happens to be OLD (Atlon XP timeline )

---