I highly doubt it can be abused. There is no effective way of using that stat against the enemy team for it to be considered unfair or a cheat. Unless of course you are planning on sitting there doing nothing just watching that counter for any sudden decreases, in which case you trade off being helpful on your team to being dead weight who is just watching a mine counter to see if mines go down. (Which you can do just as easily if you just watch for an explosion in your base)
