A few things i would check:

- * Make sure the PC is wired or wireless. Not both
- * Reassign IP-adresses and remove any reserved ones in the router
- * Make sure the PC isn't running anykind of server software (Windows NT, 2003, 2008) This causes the router to give more IP's to the machine (my server has 10)
- * Check that at your networkcards (where you can add/remove protocols etc) that non of the connections have been bridged by accidend.

I hope this can help you a bit
