

---

Subject: Re: Question

Posted by jnz on Sun, 04 Jan 2009 17:52:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

There's one called bochs, you could always try that. I think though because of the very nature of an emulator it would be very difficult to allow direct access to certain hardware. Mainly because I don't think 2 things can use it at the same time. So you'd have to somehow switch over execution on it to the virtual machine. I'm sure windows would take that great.

I don't really know, I just assume this is the case. I'm sure Saberhawk could clear this up.

---