Well since it's been circulating the torrents for a while anyway they might as well release an official one to the public. Whether it will be the build 7000 that is currently circulating or a later build remains to be seen, but I suspect it will be a later build.

I may download it just to get a first hand look at Win7 (and no, I don't intend to do that by getting a leaked version), but if I do it will be in Virtual PC, I have no inclination to install a beta copy in a dual boot configuration.
