LOL i like how this immediately jumps into a 360 flaming thread. Did anyone of you read his post?

WHY would he have been dropped shit onto his Xbox while it is on and spinning a cd? that doesnt make sense

Why would you lift up and tilt (i assume close to a 45degree angle) from the front of the system while theres a game IN A CD TRAY.

So by doing senseless things to something that wasn't meant to be done to it, its immediately the devices problem ? If you have a device with a spinning cd, the logical thing would be to not unbalance it would it not ?

I would love to have someone drive there car then suddenly push the gear into park, then bitch about company X's shitty vehicles.

This appears to be the same idea to me.
