This is me.

Wisdom and moderation.

If you can exercise some level of self-control, there's no reason not to have a drink with your friends every now and then.

Not to say I haven't overdone it before. When I was in India I had 7 glasses of scotch, felt great for a while, but later had projectile vomiting! Even then, I remembered to drink my water before crashing, and didn't have the slightest hangover when I woke up. Actually, I felt great.
