The job I'm wanting to get requires me to have a CIS degree which is, I think, a step down from a full-blown CS degree. With a CS/CIS degree, you can get jobs like what I want to become; a developer. The job I'm looking at is an entry-level .NET programmer (/me prepares to be flamed by other coders here..) but it requires me to have a B.S. in either CIS or CS (I can't remember which off the top of my head.)
