I was hoping to make a non-advantage modification that removes heads (places them inside their bodies) of all male renegade characters, but in the end, due to several glitches of head placement, I gave up.

At first it worked fine for Havoc and the GDI soldiers

But when I came across Gunner, I became a little worried - it seemed his piercings became infected.

Hoping this was the only muck-up I was going to encounter, I walked out into the field of Skirmish, only to find that Nod soldiers were having a fantasy.

Mobius on the other-hand, went the complete opposite directions of Nod.

Why do the characters all react differently to the movement of certain bones? Is it fixable?
