BFD made it into the top 100 unreleased, alongside AR, now obviously we came nowhere near what they came to, but getting into the top 100 is a pretty big achievement.

(not starting a flame fest).

edit: I also see no login button?

Hmm, we can easy add other mods there too, thank you for suggesting that.

There is no more need to register/login anymore.

I should really explain the new system.

The site is now linked to a forum which is located at MP-Gaming.

When you submit a tutorial, you do it in a forum post like way, once you completed the tutorial and submitted it, staff there will approve it or reject it, if it is approved, the tutorial will now show up in the SITE and the forum, linking it to the forum allows lots of cool stuff, like allowing users to comment and reply about the tutorial.

Also because it'd be a bit of work to code a standalone login system. Thus, by using a forum, you can have the entire site run off the forum's existing login/user system. Not to mention, the forum can be set to "moderate" posts thus the only thing that needed to be done with renhelp was give it a new design/whatnot rather than taking the time to code it from scratch.
