Subject: IMPORTANT: Information on cheaters spotted in Renegade
Posted by General Havoc on Thu, 07 Aug 2003 11:50:26 GMT

I'm glad it out in the open now, and what Crimson has said are the only cheats I know about.

The guy who made the wallhack was a person who use to play on the same server as me and the clan I was in. He wasn't even a modder as far as I remembered him and it came as a great suprise when he connected to the server and started shouting crap about a wallhack and the URL where you can get it. After investigation by members of our clan we found that he had indeed made a wallhack by hacking a file in the Westwood maps. At this stage the hack was reported to one of the lot over here, Blazer I think. We was hoping originally that there could be a tool built into Blaze Regulate to check for this hack.

Hopefully this can be stopped by what the guys are developing here. Although this news is shocking to a lot of you the amount of perople caught using this hack has been only two on the server I was on about, one being the author, who now has left the Renegade community.

Lets hope we can continue playing as normal.

_General Havoc