

---

Subject: Re: Is use of CAPITAL LETTERS in the rules.
Posted by Splasher on Thu, 02 Apr 2009 22:15:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

"Do you find others annoying and thought that other regulars would have thought the same"

You thought!!!

"Thoughts" do not enter the equation. However you acted on your own behalf.

MY MUM!! God bless her, she has passed. Your turn will come when someone dies. May my MUM be as godly as yours.

If you really want to know, Dad, Mum, Bro, Bros son (nephew).

Thats the immediate family.

Dad- heart attack

Mum- cancer

Bro- road crash (passenger)

Nephew- (bros- son - 15 died of leukemia) hmm a retard

THAT'S WHY I get a little aggrieved at words like CANCER "Kanker" "Retard"- especially when at 14 years old my nephew couldn't do anything for himself.

However at 44 myself, I ask not that anyone accepts my answers after all I have not lived.

No matter what age you are. Please chat nicely with each other.

Forgive indiscretions.

Sometimes, the anniversary of a memory makes one remember. Then it awakens the memories.

Do not be so judgmental, ever..

Ask WHY a person is behaving..as you see them.

Caps aside..... Im "shaking my head" trying to think what will make you understand bereavement. But you cant, not that you care, as you say, who cares, its another part of YOUR world.

It happens to us all, that grand leveller of us when we die.

Death is not concerned with age. Who knows if it is your turn next?

Guys!! IMHO,

Caps whilst drunk or mis-spelt words when sober.

Are we the English Grammar Enforcers?

Hmmmm.

---