i just have a pc, i dont really like to spend alot of time sitting at home, so the fact that i dont have any consoles makes me go play at someone elses place. i think that if i was ever to buy one i would just end up sitting at home and gaming non stop. oh and i would need a better tv as its old as shit and it would have terrible graphics on it. while my computer for most games would look better than any of the same games on consoles. for example fallout 3, mass effect, there were a few other games that looked so much better on pc than on xbox 360.
