

---

Subject: Re: Suggestion + Question

Posted by dr3w2 on Fri, 24 Apr 2009 19:59:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

StealthEye wrote on Fri, 24 April 2009 07:42 You get used to it quickly, you won't even notice it... I have more debug output on my screen than shown there and can still play normally.

I'm not sure about this. It's definitely very cool, but I can see possibilities to abuse it, intentionally or not. I can imagine mods having this on and without really noticing they look at the IRC logs when there's no real reason to, giving them an advantage (comparable to dual screen but even more tempting)... Hmm..

I had another idea which I may be using for n00bstories.

Get the currently connected servers IP and listen only for incoming messages from that source IP. Allow the server/server owner/bot handle any of the extra messages that they would allow to be sent to the players. I know, it sounds like !page and !msg but this could be used as a secondary thing

---