I had perfect attendance all through school. I rarely if ever miss work(work over the summers).

It's simple. You stay up to late you get your lazy ass up in the morning. There's no thinking about it because theres no option. You just do it. You make others lives harder when you call in sick.

I run my own business and have for several years. My family also owns several fast food restraunts. It pisses me off when people call in sick because either my parents or I have to go in and work. That means I get called into work at 9 am on saturday morning after getting home from a night of drinking till 5am.
FUCK SICK PPL

RIGHT ON
