My friends smoke and they become the most stupid fucking idiots ever..just last night after smoking went swimming with there phone in there front pocket...but like my sister and her freind they smoke a lot but they just get calmed down and they still very very smart

so some people smoke and become stupid slow and usually a bitch while others just calm down and still smart as they was before...it all depends for me

The same thing happens with alcohol, too. Same for caffeine and sugar. People have different tolerances for substances and substances affects peoples' brains differently.
