

---

Subject: Re: Question for Christians

Posted by Dover on Fri, 29 May 2009 02:35:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Altzan wrote on Thu, 28 May 2009 14:40Quote:Then you should have no trouble accepting the faith of my new religion, the Invisible Purple Flying Unicorn? (She's invisible, so we don't know that she's purple, but we believe it to be so). I know your God forbids the worship of any other God, but in a hypothetical situation where the Invisible Purple Flying Unicorn got to you first, would you have a problem with worshipping her?

I doubt that would hold up over time, though.

Why not? With the exception of the minute details, it would probably be pretty similar to the faith you hold now. Change "Jesus" and "God" to "Unicorn", and you have an equally-valid religion. You can even make smug, holier-than-thou comments about it, like Altzan wrote on Thu, 28 May 2009 06:50Most people find it hard to accept faith because it is belief in something you can't see clearly. People convince themselves that there's no way any of this could be true, they refuse to believe it, but they'll know in the end.

---