It's over 15 hours of viewing pleasure. But chances are that I'm going to vote for Nintendo. Why? Because Microsoft is only good for Halo, and I already know about the next Halo game, and Sony is just 'train managing to get lost in space,' fail. (They make super expensive consoles with a bunch of useless gadgets I wont ever bother to use...)

I would really consider watching each of their press conferences then say who you're going to vote for, you'd really be surprised.

I'm not too sure who I'd vote for to be honest.
