If you go to sites where the majority of people don't think you can download the internet you get much different stats.

Geez!? Those stats are the complete opposite.... I guess all the web designers use ff. W3 might not be a good site to track because it only gets one type of audience (web designers).

& they didnt come from livejournal, I said before, those stats are from one of my more larger sites. (+100,000 hits)
