

---

Subject: Re: Scrins Light tank

Posted by reborn on Sat, 01 Aug 2009 08:33:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Firstly, to me the tank doesn't look all that nice.

Secondly, Scrin in my opinion was an un-balanced person who wasn't really all that nice to be honest. He had an inflated ego, and enjoyed people sucking on his e-dick so that he would graciously climax his texture replacements onto there face at the end. All involved found themselves in a sticky situation...

Thirdly, to emulate his behaviour, without even making that texture yourself in the first place (not that it was ever a viable excuse in any case) puts you actually one step below Scrin in my book. Releasing other peoples work is a very grey area, but doing it selectively on a public forum just like Scrin too is shameful.

Seriously, have we all learned nothing from Scrin's poor example?

His attitude sucked and he was largely dis-liked for it.

If you make something for this game, why not just release it publically? I don't understand this whole hording culture just so you can sit on a mountain looking down at other people.

Release or don't realease it. If you do decide to be selective about it, or are refusing to release it pointblank, then don't go bragging about what you've made publically. Besides, 9 times out of 10 whatever it is any of us have actually made either has bugs, looks like shit, or just doesn't work. People's ego's are far too large for the shit that's on offer here anyway...

---