I agree. Having something you plan turn out to be a failure and making up a reason to blame someone else IS childish. I have gone over my private forums at NS and I can't even find a mention of us talking about the little event, much less forbidding the girls on our staff from playing in it. Craziness. Unfortunately, the person on our staff that was supposedly forbidden to play hasn't been online since earlier this afternoon so we can't talk to her yet to find out if she has any clue where this story came from.
