

---

Subject: Re: Which Car Is Better?

Posted by JohnDoe on Tue, 18 Aug 2009 08:46:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Stay away from American cars: technically outdated garbage, would only get a Challenger because they look so ill. This guy's throwing a party because his Chevy lasted 14 years lmao...nuff said.

For a real German car (not these Mexico-build VW Jettas with their outdated engines and inferior build-quality), it's either a VW Passat, Audi A3 or BMW 1-series depending on whether you're looking for space or performance. All of them are slightly less than 30K, classy and more technically refined than the Japanese stuff..

You could of course get a boring Japanese car instead...350Zs (I thought you wanted something with good fuel economy???) are 100% overweight USA-designed garbage btw, get a RX-8 instead.