Subject: Re: off topic
Posted by futura83 on Tue, 18 Aug 2009 16:22:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm not entirely sure what's gone on, nor do i care.

But reading through this thread, the most pathetic thing i can see is Crimson (and anyone else that's said it as a way of demeaning exodus) saying 'faildus' instead of 'exodus'.

It's damn right childish.

I mean, why do you have a problem with saying 'exodus'?

What would you do if they started calling your server 'fail stories' (which actually makes more sense than simply changing the exo of exodus to fail)?

Edit:

In fact, this thread shows exactly what will kill renegade, and that's communities competing for players instead of working together.

As an ideal game, there would be servers of different types only, and then more servers coming along when the player count in that type is constantly too high.

If communities are constantly splitting renegade will only die.