

---

Subject: Re: RULES?

Posted by Goztow on Fri, 28 Aug 2009 07:33:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quote: Mr goztoe

It's not very nice to misspell my nickname. Why compare me to a toe? It's a form of respect to at least try to write it correctly.

I'm not sure anyone around here understands what you mean. I suppose you're talking about me posting your ip address in the subject where you showed your screenshots of you using *cheat name removed*? If you want to sue based on American law, then you'll probably have to sue Crimson as it's her forum and everything happening on it is her responsibility. If you want to sue me personally, you'll have to come to Belgium as I'm not subject to American law. But then again, as I said: everything happening on Crimson's forum is her responsibility.

Then we can also ask ourselves the question if an ip address is private information, if you're spitting it out towards every website you visit, every game you play, etc. It would probably have been much smarter to use a proxy in the first place.

Finally about our own rules of conduct: that rule was added after the events you rage about happened. I'd say a rule cannot be applied if it didn't exist at that moment.

Your humble ... goztoe

---