It was on his watch. He was the Commander-In-Chief at the time. It was his responsibility (Or at least, the responsibility of the people he hired) to prevent that sort of thing from happening. While he probably didn't cause 9/11 directly, he's certainly guilty through inaction.

How would you suggest a president might have prevented 9-11 or even prevent something similar from happening today? Just curious since you seem to know all the answers.
