

---

Subject: Re: Is it really Michael Jackson?

Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Fri, 04 Sep 2009 21:36:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

TORN wrote on Sat, 29 August 2009 07:10 Michael Jackson was a disturbed plastic pedophile, why do people care that a shit stain like that died?

I'm just glad he can't abuse anymore boys and fuck their heads and bodies up.

I don't know if you're trolling or not, but here's a few facts either way.

First of all, it was never proven Michael Jackson had molested children. So even if he WAS a pedophile, he certainly didn't molest them. And you KNOW how the public can be, if they could find ANY sort of evidence saying he even touched them inappropriately, they'd be all over him and he'd be in jail. But they didn't, really.

Secondly, they even tested him with some of the top people (Can't remember who exactly right now) to see if he even showed any signs of being a pedophile. He wasn't even close to being one.

Thirdly, as for the "plastic" thing, he sorta HAD to get plastic surgery after that accident (his head being on fire and such, look it up). The various other physical deformities he suffered were a direct or indirect result of him having lupus (yes Dr. House, it IS lupus), vitiligo (Skin disease that makes it lose all pigmentation, hence him being white and frail looking), becoming addicted to painkillers and various other pills (you would too if you suffered third degree burns like he did, not to mention the constant mental abuse from nearly everyone in the world), and his father abusing him as a kid (You'd be surprised how this has an effect).

The guy had it pretty tough. Sure, he was no saint, and certainly was a bit fucked up in the head- but any normal person in his circumstances would have committed suicide or become a whole lot worse, if not clinically and every other form of insane.

Let's also go back to the fact that his father DID abuse him- this can have very long lasting, if not permanent, mental damage to someone. Out of his family, he looked almost nothing like them- he was very feminine for being black, and this was pretty looked down upon. Especially at the time.

But he didn't complain. He just sucked it up for the most part, and tried to do something awesome. He made some awesome music, practically re-invented dancing, gave millions to charity, inspired MANY, MANY artists, and apparently, was an amazing father to his children.

So before running your mouth about shit you have no fucking clue about, get your facts straight, then shut the fuck up.

---