I just like how if you wanted an orca skin you can go, skins-GDI-vehicles instead of digging through threads like here... there are so many orca skins out there you could make it go skins-GDI-vehicles-orcas. Also I like the display they use there with the thumbnail SS and the info next to it.

As for there stuff being in the wrong I haven't noticed, but I wouldn't be suprised either.

No, they haven't updated the files since early march I think.

Think how much has been released since then? Only to be burried in a list of threads. And some threads may hold a few different versions of skins maybe a different color or something, but people will never know unless they spend hours going through every single post.
