I do everything in my levels that aren't for Renegade Alert, as some of the levels I create are immense and need a better computer to process the visibility rendering.

The only times I have anyone else look at something I've done is when I need assistance; e.g. a level crashes for no apparent reason. Dante or NeoSaber lends assistance when needed in that situation.

Everything else is done by myself, and I enjoy using LevelEdit to create additional things that aren't possible when using Max.
