
Subject: Re: New computer - oh dear, oh dear
Posted by DarkDemin on Sun, 01 Nov 2009 03:39:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

tactic356 wrote on Sat, 31 October 2009 21:49 From what I've experience Asus boards have horrible quality control. You need to RMA the board a few times till you get a working one but after that they're usually decent.

I'm tired of people spreading bullshit like this. Asus is the largest motherboard manufacturer in the world of course there are going to be some bad boards out there, but saying you had to RMA the board a few times is a load of crap or you don't know how to handle/install a motherboard properly. I have built every computer I have ever owned with an Asus motherboard, the Gateway FX laptop I have has an Asus motherboard in it. Asus boards are the most powerful for the money. I don't want to get this construed as, "Oh, he says Asus boards are the best." No I know that some boards may be better by the numbers but I'm tired of this bullshit being spread around that Asus makes an inferior product. Don't bother linking someones opinionated blog because I don't give a damn what some person that considers them self an expert because they bought some 5.95 10GB of bandwidth hosting from GoDaddy.com.

</rant>
