
Subject: Re: FANBOY THREAD - Whiskey or Vodka?
Posted by Herr Surth on Mon, 30 Nov 2009 22:39:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 22:29: surth? / surth! wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 14:16: "I HATE FISH!"
"WELL BUT I LIKE IT"
"YEAH THAT MAKES YOU A FAGGOT WITHOUT TASTE, K?"

That's how discussions on fish or music or anything tend to go. Welcome to the internet. so youre admitting the defeatist nature of discussing taste? awesome, i can practically stop here!

Quote:

surth? / surth! wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 14:16: I feel strongly about music. I dont particularly care for genres, albeit i admit that metal is among the few that i usually wont like.

At the risk of going further off topic, can I ask why? Because out of every metal song i have listened to so far, I have liked about 1 or 2 (more if you were to include, say, nine inch nails broken). inductive reasoning (HARHARHAR) therefore tells me that its not worth my while trying to find metal i like because the chances are slim i will.

Quote:

surth? / surth! wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 14:16: I also happen to listen to music that isnt electronic, so again, what skills do they have? actually playing their music is a trait that most bands offer, its nothing special.

Most bands can't (Or at least don't) straddle genres that differ widely like Finnish Folk and Metal. Korpiklaani do that, they do it well, and they write fairly good drinking songs. None of those things in themselves are unique, but they're uncommon enough to be special. Oh, so writing does matter? In that case, I declare that the electronic music i listen to happens to be written in such a good fashion that i can forgive them for not using nonelectronic-instruments.

Quote: Not only that, but Finnish Folk is a particularly beautiful genre of music, and blending it (well) with any other type of music is almost always a good thing. I happen to think its not beautiful. sorry for that.

Quote:

surth? / surth! wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 14:16: Its also funny how you seemingly completely disregard the writing aspect of music in favor of SKILL SKILL SKILL; "knocking shit together and looping it for 8 minutes". Wow, your knowledge of electronic music is amazing!

I've written electronic music. It's not particularly hard, nor is it particularly rewarding. "Writing" electronic music and calling yourself a musician is perpetrating a fraud and therefore makes you a lying faggot. Oh, so because you downloaded Reason 3.0 and played with it for 5 minutes, you have proven that Aphex Twin has absolutely no skill at writing.

Quote:

surth? / surth! wrote on Mon, 30 November 2009 14:16 Yes, you are elitist for having such an arbitrary definition of music that doesn't include the music YOU don't happen to like.

I like all types of music. I'll listen to Rap or Bluegrass or Metal or Trance or anything. Everything has its proper time and place. The only one here to arbitrarily exclude any music is you, inexplicably disliking any sort of metal enough to derail a thread, although the thread in question was started by RoCK2Star, so I guess it doesn't really matter. See above. Also, derailing threads is always a worthy cause.
