
Subject: Re: dx 10 vs dx11

Posted by Homey on Mon, 14 Dec 2009 06:10:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nikki6ixx wrote on Sun, 13 December 2009 18:26Omar007 wrote on Sun, 13 December 2009

16:55Reaver11 wrote on Sun, 13 December 2009 23:44...

Still not many games use it so theres not a big problem there.

Lol afaik not 1 game uses it (yet)!! >.>

If there is one name it

'Dirt 2' has DX11 capabilities. However, I recall one review where the gameplay had an average 30% FPS drop in comparison to DX9/DX10 modes, and the graphics weren't terribly better.

Frankly, I don't think it's worth getting a DX11 card at the moment because by the time games begin to implement it, both nVidia and ATI will likely be on their next generation, and the 5xxx and GT300's will be significantly cheaper.

I got a 5870 for performance, not cause it has DX11. 90% of games are still DX9 so....
