I'm pretty sure she said she would be sending it to the winner, not who the winner deferred the payment to.

I can understand that, what if the winners said that wanted 100 seperate payments made of a buck to different people. That would be pretty annoying to have to administrate...

Plus, I guess it would sting a little for Crimson handing money over to Exodus (a point that was no doubt not lost on anyone when they made there decision to split the money).
