If you play individually, then your remark about how the kill points are rewarded would be significant. But guess what: Renegade is supposed to be all about teamplay. Actually its pretty important since it determines at what speed your team can acquire vehicles/infantry. As long as donate is not turned on at least. There are other changes which would make sense to fix that. For ex. get 2 credits for each point. You still have to make points (deal damage) but you solve the economy side/argument.
